This process allows players to receive a “readout” of the data directly in-game, without needing to perform lengthy calculations. “This technology not only helps to improve gameplay, but for the first time, players can see their stats and details in the same box as their opponent’s stats,” said Sebastian Gerwig, FIFA Senior Producer. “It’s very exciting to see how this tech can be used to bring players’ and coaches’ tactical discussions into the game.” In addition to player feedback, FIFA 22 also features new Ambidextrous Control, which allows players to choose between player positions, as well as a new “Custom Game” which allows FIFA players to set up their best-suited formations and tactics in their favourite tactical environment. FIFA 22 will be available for PlayStation 4, Xbox One, and PC on September 20 in Europe, September 21 in the United States, and September 22 in Australia. It will be released digitally on PlayStation 4, Xbox One, and PC via Origin on Windows Store. Download codes will be available for Xbox One and PC on September 15. FIFA 22 will feature: Dual A.I. Teams - New game features use AI Intelligence and instinct, which allows AI on each team to play in the most appropriate way for its general position on the pitch. Real Player Motion - Featuring “HyperMotion Technology,” each player is able to influence his or her actions using a camera that travels with them, and features player-inspired movement. FIFA Fan Voices - FIFA 22 will allow you to call the shots in-game thanks to the introduction of FIFA Club and MyClub. Ambidextrous Control - This feature allows players to choose which controller to use at any given point. Custom Game - Create your own gameplay environment by choosing your preferred playing style and environment, including grass, mud, snow and terrains in new “4k” environments. FIFA Insider membership on disc - A special edition of the digital version of FIFA 22 will also include the March 2016 edition of F.I.A.L. Magazine and an exclusive FIFA Insider membership. The FIFA Insider membership provides extra content, and members will receive eight exclusive digital content items in the weeks leading up to the launch of the game. Celebrate your birthday in style with
